

Friday 9 June 2023

---

Artificial Intelligence trial at ARI gets national attention We are pleased to say an important trial of artificial intelligence at ARI will be featured on the BBC over the weekend. The team from BBC Click met NHS and University of Aberdeen colleagues involved in the Gemini trial, which is using AI as an added check on mammograms, to understand if it can detect cancers earlier. You can read the full piece, which includes a link to the BBC Click programme here: Aberdeen AI trial helps doctors spot breast cancers - BBC News A huge thank you to all those involved in this exciting and innovative project for their co-operation.

Infection Prevention & Control training – what do I need to do? All members of NHS Grampian staff are expected to complete Infection Prevention & Control training, but the package you should undertake will vary depending on your role. The IPC team have created this flow chart to make it easy for you (intranet link, networked devices only).

That was the week that was Would it be a Friday without a quick look at the key items from this week?

Monday 5 – reminder re: finalising bank shifts, information for Carers Week

Tuesday 6 – defibrillator showcase event, HCSW service needs analysis workshop

Wednesday 7 – launch of survey on glove use, new bus service to connect Kingswells and ARI

Thursday 8 – iMatter update – closes Monday at 4pm, Datix surgery dates

All briefs are available on our public website: Working with Us/HR Portal/NHSG Staff Daily Briefs

STAR Award There are some presentations to be confirmed, so we'll be keeping winners' names secret for now. Filling in the online nomination form – or dropping an email to gram.staffthanksandrecognition@nhs.scot - is all you need to do to nominate a colleague for a STAR award.

Tune of the day Thanks to Diane Brown in the ARI Pharmacy department for today's request; she's asked for Summer Holiday, dedicated to Maureen Whyte. Whether you're heading off on holiday, planning to visit Nuart, or simply taking a moment to collect yourself, enjoy. If you're working, have a save shift. The brief will return on Monday (EP)

If you want to request a tune, follow up on items included in this brief, or suggest an item for sharing, drop us an email via gram.communications@nhs.scot